Though the French nation seem to be lacking in the moreantile instinct, and to be deficient in commercial enterprise, it must be concoded that Fronch engineers, scientists, and explorers are ever to be found in the forefront in all parts of the world. M. de LESSERS is The LIST OF RESIDENTS now contains a living monument of indomitable pluck, dauntless perseverance, and steadfast selfreliance. To the numerous courageous works of exploration undertaken by Frenchmen, another of some little importance—which however, is liable to pass with little notice at the present moment, when Tonquin is so sore a subject with the French peoplehas lately been added. Commander RE-VEILLERE, a French naval officer, has succeeded in a daring, attempt to ascend the rapids of the Meikong, beyond Samboc, in a steamer. Some high trees seem to hold on to the earth only by creepers, which bind them to the bank, like airy roots." Commander Reveillere noticed the same thing, but being a more practised observer, he states nis conviction that the barrier causing the rapids will turn out to be merely a mass of trees. which has got permanently fixed there and is tary officers of Kores, from which we learn that maintained by annual additions, but which he believes can be removed without difficulty by means of explosives. Between Khong and Bassac the waters are unbroken and deep. but the channel is again obstructed a short of the river Ub me—that is, over a distance of two-thirds of a degree of latitude-the Meikong is nothing more than an impetuous torrent whose waters rush along a channel more than a bundred metres deep by bardly sixty across. The truth began, at last, to force itself on the most sanguine among us. Steamers can never plough the Meikong as they do the Amazon or the Mississippi; and Saigon can never be united to the western provinces of China by this immense river-way, whose waters make it so mighty, but which seems, after all, to be a 192 work unfinished." But Commander REverlings is hopeful that the navigation of the Meikong may be improved by the removal of some of these rapids, and the Lactian markets at all events brought into easy communication with Saigon. It is possible that the conclusions arrived ataby M. DE CARNE were too hastily formed, and it would be very interesting to put to the test of experiment. The Minstrel Troupe of the United States covrette Alert propose giving an entertainment to-morrow evening at the City Hall, the particulars of which will be found on our front page.

POST-OFFICE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen For further information as to Passage and occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to eight, apply to the Agency of the Company, note on the cover, Sent to ----, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for foar of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.
